Ar is unnounced that the leading shipping companies have gained a great point for which they have long been contending, but which only came prominently before the public during the great dock strike,-the right of discharging their vessels independontly of the dick companies. From the first of next month the P. & O. Co., the B. I. S. N. Co., the National Co., the Allen Co., the Wilson Co., and other companies in the Albert Dock will employ their own labour and work their ships as they please and it is the intention to create a large number of permanent. Union hands, in order to be as little dependent on casual labour. It will be interesting to note the readlt in the great masses of casualty labour a'ong the Thames side, and on the dock companies, with their mob of unruly and studiously languid gangs of ' Dock Unionists.'

The first and most demonstrable proof is to be found in the outrances and clearances of vessels angaged in the foreign trade. It there be any truth in the axom that trade follows the flag, it is indisputable that the country through whose ports more than onethird of the foreign trade of practically all the maritime nations of the world passes must be paramount on the sens. The international commerce of the United Kingdom, the United States of America, France, and Holland, as represented by shipping may be placed approximately at rather more than 200:000,000 of tens, aid of this gigantic total no less than 72,000,000 tons were entered and cleared in British ports last year. The inference to be drawn from these figures is confirmed by the comparative statement of the merchant navies of the principal maritime countries the latest data available for which come down to the end of 1888, when our own tonnage was lower by 300,000 tons than the figure it attained last year. In that year the merchant vessels of the Brilish Empire represented 9.210.000 tons of which 7,4:8,00) belonged to the United Kingdom. The ocean-going The Judge in delivering his charge to the vessels of all the other countries put togejury, said that although the case had octher had a tonnage of less than eight mil cupied a good deal of time, the circumslion tone, our marcet competitor being tances bearing directly on the guilt or Norway with 1,535,0.0 tone. These totals it should be explained, do not include the merchant navies of Russia and Finland, of which no details were forthcoming, and whose aggregate tonnage may be estimated at about 750,00) tons. Franco had I ss than a million tons, Germany nearly a million and a quarter, and the United States nearly-a million tone, though, in addition to its ocean-going fleet, it had 3,250,000 tons of versuls employed in the river, lake, and consting trade.

In steam vessels we have an enormous preponderance, for while the United Kingdom passesses in round figures 4,750,0 0 tons, France and Germany in 1888 owned only 1,012 000, tons between them, and no other country possessed an ocean-going steam tonnage amounting to 250,000 tons. During the last two years we have added 1.250,000 to our merchant navy, a total almost twice as large as that of all the rest of the world together. It is impossible to trace the growth of our mercantile marine without a feeling of admiration for the marvellous enterprise and foresight by which supplementing the great natural advantages which this country possessed, our shipbuilders and shipowners have outdistanced all the other maritimo ations. Fifty years ago the clearances at our ports were less than 9,500,000 tons of which neignificant. But as the use of steam veloped, the foreign mercantile pavies neressed more rapidly than our own, until it seemed that England, while still occupying the first place amongst individual nations was yet destined to be reduced from her the rumour. position of overwhelming superiority. In dom had grown to nearly 11,000,001 tors. while those of British shipping had inprossed only to 14,000,0:0 tone. The next 10 y are, however, witnessed an extraordinary descriptment, our shipbuilding advancing, like our commerce, by leans and bounds. The clearances of British ships in the home ports rose from 14,000,060, to 31,000,000 tons, against au improvement of be ely 50 per cent, in the foreign townage; and if since 1875 no such phenomenal growth has taken plage, there has, ut al events, been a steady and gradual progress in exply year except 1885 and 1886 when the universal depression in trade and agriculture was reflected in the shipping trade by a falling off of 5: 0,000 tons in British. and double that quantity in foreign entries clearances. List year's clearances reached 7 ,000 000 tons, $2,000,000 being British, and 19,500,000 foreign tonnage. The disparity this shown is augmented by the fact that of the home versels 80 per cent; as against only 20 per cent of the foreign ships, was steam tourage. In two respects, the statistics which the

Board of Trade officials have compiled show results which are not altogether satisfactory. The proportion of foreigners employed on our ships, though somewhat smaller than in one or two recent years, is sufficiently large to cause some embarrassment in the event of this country unhappily becoming engaged in war. In 1851 when our merchant seamen numbered 142,000, there were only 21 foreigners in every 500 Bailors. Now, out of 210,010, no fewer than 26,841, or 14.63 per 100 are foreigners, the proportion | condemned the precedent of asking the being higher than at any time except during sanction of Parliament, before concluding the seven years of depression from 1881 to I realies for the cession of territory, on the 1887.
